Patient Advocacy Leadership Collective Programs

Supporting Organizational Growth	The NexGen Leadership Program is a training program that provides tools and resources to support the growth and development of leaders in patient advocacy, so they can grow their services and capabilities to be the best for the communities they serve.	“Collectively, we are trying to define and practice the skills that help organisations like ours stay sustainable to continue to serve patients for the long run.” – Valentina Strammiello , European Patients Forum
Connecting Advocacy Professionals	The Mentorship Program fosters connections and offers peer support between advocacy groups to learn and grow from one another. Advocacy organizations can define the areas upon which they seek to be matched to help develop the mentor-mentee relationship.	“Community-to-community exchanges are powerful. Building one community to work together and learn each other’s experiences, challenges, and opportunities is invaluable.” – Regina Mariam Namrata Kamoga , Community Health and Information Network
Sharing Resources and Knowledge	The Global Health Fellows (GHF) Program* places Pfizer colleagues on skills sharing assignments with patient advocacy organizations to help strengthen local health systems.	“The Fellows’ contributions have had an enduring impact on our team and provided us with valuable skills to meet the future needs of our organization.” – CARE

Patient Advocacy Leadership Collective Provides Educational Resources

Supporting Health Literacy with CLEAR

CLEAR is an automated, evidence-based, health literacy tool designed to meet different patient needs. It helps individuals communicate in a clear and understandable way. By incorporating health literacy best practices, CLEAR improves written text by checking readability, understandability, and actionability.

CLEAR is currently only available for U.S. patient advocacy organizations. Sign up with Patient Advocacy Leadership Collective to get updates on when it will be available for your region.
